LOCAL GRANT AWARDEES:

Jewish Federation of Greater New Haven

Hope in a Bag
This project provides critical menstrual and hygiene supplies to community members in need through a delivery network of community social service partners such as food banks, food pantries, schools, shelters, and resource centers. The products are purchased using funds from donations, individual and corporate sponsorships, and grants. Personal tote bags are assembled by volunteers.

The Towers at Tower Lane

The Butterfly Project: An Intergenerational Holocaust Education Program and Art Project
Honoring children who were murdered in the Holocaust, this national program invites participants to paint ceramic butterflies in remembrance of each child lost. The program includes film, discussion, and the butterfly art project. The Towers will install its butterfly project in their outdoor garden, and a component of this project will also be featured at the Greater New Haven Yom HaShoah Program in 2027.

Camp Laurelwood

Jewish Values in Action
This program is a women-led initiative that engages campers in Jewish learning, leadership, and hands-on service rooted in tikkun olam. The program strengthens Jewish identity in young women and encourages leadership and empowerment.

B’nai B’rith Youth Organization - Connecticut Valley Region (BBYO)

Mindfulness, Movement & Meaning
Led by a panel of Jewish health and wellness professionals and BBYO alumni from various fields, the program will combine gentle movement and facilitated conversation to promote wellness, self-reflection, Jewish values, and a cross-generational connection.

Jewish Israeli Center of New Haven

JIC Women’s Circle
The JIC Women’s Circle is an ongoing program that brings Jewish women together through meaningful, hands-on experiences that foster connection to Jewish holidays, values, and community.

GRANT AWARDEES IN ISRAEL:

Haifa Rape Crisis Center (HRCC)

You Are Not Alone
Building on their success in Afula, HRCC is expanding their support groups to the Jezreel Valley to address the rising demand for support since the war. This project provides 10 survivors with 18 professional sessions offering a safe, familiar space to recover and find strength.

Beit Ruth for Young Women and Girls at Risk

Beit Ruth STEM Initiative
Beit Ruth’s STEM Initiative provides young women with immersive technology education through a robotics program and featuring the ImagineBox, an engaging, programmable classroom with interactive walls. They gain academic skills, confidence, and career pathways in high-demand fields, expanding futures once unimaginable and supporting long-term economic independence.

Counseling Center for Women (CCW)

The Second Shift: Empowering Women Caring for Aging Loved Ones
The Counseling Center’s support group is for women aged 50 and over who are caring for aging parents as they navigate careers, family responsibilities, and personal change. Recognizing the emotional strain and isolation this role brings, the group offers a safe, inclusive space for women to connect with others who are going through the same demanding mid-life stage.

Jaffa Institute

Welfare to Wellbeing
Welfare to Wellbeing is designed to address the problem of chronic unemployment and intergenerational poverty among disadvantaged Ethiopian women, particularly single mothers. Located in Kiryat Malachi, this program provides women with tools and support to achieve financial independence through vocational skills training, empowerment workshops, food packages, scholarships, and therapeutic and employment support.

Yashar LaChayal

Female Soldiers in Need Project
The project’s purpose is to assist underprivileged female IDF soldiers. There are many female combat soldiers under extreme financial stress with little to no family support. The grant monies will provide these soldiers with household appliances, grocery vouchers, holiday food packages, and warm clothing.

ASLI Israel White Ribbon Organization

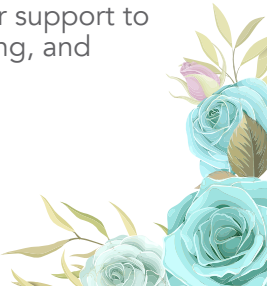

Male leadership in the Community
Based on Argun Seret Lavan Israel’s (ASLI) experience engaging bystander men through community and national-level fieldwork, the ASLI Israel White Ribbon Organization Male Leadership in the Community program aims to build local communities of men committed to preventing violence against women. These men work to make their surroundings safer for women and girls while actively encouraging and inspiring other men to get involved.

One In Nine for Every Woman

By Your Side
In Northern Israel, women diagnosed with breast cancer face not only illness but isolation, especially in communities affected by the war. This program offers structured support groups and a peer mentorship program (“By Your Side”), connecting diagnosed women with trained survivors to provide guidance, hope, and resilience.

Ruca’s Farm

Rooted in Resilience
This grant will fund the Ruca’s Farm first all-women therapeutic agro-rehabilitation cohort for IDF female veterans coping with PTSD. The program combines trauma-informed farming, group and individual therapy, somatic practices, and peer support to strengthen resilience, offering healing, and long-term recovery in a women centered environment.

30 YEARS OF WOMEN, VISION, AND IMPACT

Nancy Cohen, President

"Many years ago, a good friend got me involved in something new to the Jewish women in the Greater New Haven area," Nancy recalls. The biggest draw was the dual impact of supporting both local and global causes. "It was so meaningful to find a women-focused group that supports agencies in New Haven and Israel. Helping Israeli organizations that serve women dealing with trauma has been especially rewarding, along with assisting local agencies in New Haven that need a little push to get ahead." One local example Nancy mentioned, is the Gospel Choir program at B'nai Jacob, a WOV grant recipients that has become a vibrant and well-attended community initiative.

Beyond the programs themselves, Nancy sees WOV as something deeply personal and generational. "I wanted my daughters and granddaughters to be members of WOV because

I feel it is something they can wrap around themselves. To be part of the Jewish community and to see what happens to the money that is given in their name," she says. "I am hoping that if members of the community see this, they will be inspired to do the same."

Lauren Hass, Grants Committee Chair

Lauren felt an immediate connection when she was asked to join. "I was drawn by the opportunity to be part of such a diverse group of women who have a direct effect on female-focused programs in both New Haven and Israel."

Serving on, and most recently chairing, the Grants Committee has been especially meaningful. "We are a small but mighty group that takes this responsibility seriously, reading applications carefully, discussing priorities thoughtfully, and working hard to ensure our decisions reflect both compassion and impact."

"I hope WOV's membership continues to grow so we can expand our reach and impact, and that it remains a model of collaborative philanthropy where women come together to create lasting change."

Lauren notes as she looks to the future. "The beauty of this organization is its one-time ask followed by years of shared giving and visible results. More members mean more resources and opportunities to help women live safer, stronger, more empowered lives. I would also like to thank Lisa Stanger and Beth Kupcho, who keep us organized, informed, and prepared to do this important work."

Lauren Hass (Left), Grants Committee Chair and Nancy Cohen (Right), WOV Society President

As WOV celebrates 30 years of impact, we invite you to be part of the next chapter. Join Women of Vision, honor someone special with a membership gift, and help us continue creating lasting change for women and girls in our community and in Israel.

FAQ

What is the Women of Vision Society?

Women of Vision is a community of women philanthropists who make a monetary donation to fund innovative programs that strengthen and support female initiatives in the Greater New Haven Jewish community and in Israel.

What impact does the Society make?

Since its founding, Women of Vision has awarded more than $278,000 to initiatives addressing health, safety, education, leadership, and community connection for women and girls.

Who can join?

Any woman who is passionate about collective giving, community leadership, and supporting opportunities for women and girls is highly encouraged to become a member. Membership may also be made in honor of a mother, daughter, granddaughter, or to celebrate a special birthday or milestone, or in memory of a beloved friend or loved one.

What is the membership commitment?

Membership contributions are invested in a permanent endowment that provides ongoing grants to programs in Israel and Greater New Haven addressing issues such as domestic violence prevention, health initiatives, food insecurity, trauma therapy, education, leadership development, community connection, and much more.

WOMEN OF VISION SOCIETY MAKES A LASTING AND A MEANINGFUL IMPACT ON WOMEN IN OUR LOCAL AND JEWISH COMMUNITIES

Since 1996, the Jewish Foundation of Greater New Haven's Women of Vision (WOV) Society has brought together generations of women committed to strengthening lives in Greater New Haven and Israel.

As we celebrate 30 years, we honor members whose vision, generosity, and leadership have been an integral part of the WOVS Society.
